MOTHER SAVED BURNING BABY

Three-Year-Old Daughter of Norman Apple Had a Perilous Experience Last Evening.

MOTHER WAS COOL HEADED

Quickly Wrapped Her Skirts About the Human Torch at Peril of Her Own Life.

The three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noman Apple of near Moscow, Rush county, Wednesday evening was seriously burned about the arms and chest by fire which ignited her dress while standing in front of the radiator. The flames were smothered by the mother, who was attracted to the house by the child's screams. Dr. E. I. Inlow of Blue Ridge was called to dress the wounds.

At six o'clock Wednesday evening was seriously burned about the arms and chest by fire which ignited her dress while standing in front of the radiator. The flames were smothered by the mother, who was attracted to the house by the child's screams.

At six o'clock Wednesday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Apple were doing the evening chores, the baby daughter toddled to the open radiator in the front room. The clothing caught fire and as the flames shrouded her body she ran toward the kitchen screaming. The mother was near the door as the human torch came vacillating toward her. She grasped her skirt about her and, at the peril of her own life, smothered the flames.

The baby was burned about the chest and arms. The doctor said he did not anticipate any permanent or fatal results, but admitted the child had a narrow escape from a torturous death.

BUSH IS STILL THE CHILD OF THE HOUR

Former Rushville Shortstop Getting Bouquets From the Great Hugh Jennings.

PRONOUNCES HIM A MARVEL.

The following dispatch from San Antonio, Texas, concerning "Owgie" Bush, formerly with the Rushville club, will be read with interest by all local baseball fans:

"Hughie" Jennings has said repeatedly that Owen Bush, formerly of the Indianapolis team, is a marvel and there are a lot of men who will ever contend that Jennings is the greatest shortstop baseball has ever known.

It is freely predicted that the diminutive Hoosier will be the baseball sensation of the year. That's what everybody said last fall before he came to Detroit from Indianapolis. In the closing hours of the baseball year of 1908 Detroit saw Bush and his work in those few days verified most of the predictions that had been made for him.

He became the child of the hour. He came when the pennant seemed lost to Detroit and his marvelous work did as much as anything else to bring the championship to the city of the Straits.

Bush is a great ball player. He is a natural ball player.

Austria's State railway in 1906 were run at a loss of $16,849,000.

OF INTEREST TO CONVERTS

Will be the Special Mid-Week Service at Christian Church.

The mid-week service at the Main Street Christian church tonight will be of special interest to the new members received during the recent revival and an urgent invitation is extended to them to be present. The elders of the church will have charge of the meeting and it promises to be an enthusiastic one.

BURGLARY CHARGE AGAINST "WOLVES"

Whole Pack Are in the Wicked Lime-light of Publicity—Three in Jail.

CHARLEY IN WET TERRITORY

Says the Connersville News: While two of the Wolf brothers are here in jail on a pretty well substantiated charge of burglary, Charley, another brother, is pursuing his usual calling in which he has gained wide fame, in recent years. He has again chosen Richmond for theater of his operations as things go better for Charley in a "moist" atmosphere. Since the dry waves have struck most other places it makes it harder for people in Charley's class to get supplies. And it is said of him that he can "throw a fit" with much more neatness and dispatch after taking on a supply of red liker.

OIL PIPE LINE WILL GO THROUGH RUSH

Three Groups of Workmen Are at Work Putting Down Tide Water Pipe Line.

IT IS AN INTERESTING PROCESS

The Tide Water Pipe Line Company, which is constructing a six-inch pipe line from the Illinois oil fields to Lima, Ohio, and which will go through Ripley township, Rush county, has about completed its work in Shelby county and will soon cross the line into Rush and Hancock counties.

All the leases have been filed and recorded and everything is ready to push the work of laying and burying the line. It is an interesting process and many spectators gather at the camps of the workmen and along the route. There are several groups of workmen, some cleaning the right of way, some digging the trench, some laying the line, some covering it and others putting everything in shape along the line after it is laid.

TO PUT ON TWO MORE CARS

I. & C. Will Add Extra Cars For Their Summer Service.

The I. & C. traction company will put on two more extra cars April 1. There will also be a slight change made in the schedule at that time. This improvement surely means that the business, as far as passenger and express service is concerned that the company is prospering and is getting better too.

POISON KING IS A FAILURE AGAIN

Charley Wolf in the Richmond Bas-tile—Police Will Investigate Odd Specimen.

JUST A MONUMENTAL BLUFF

Former Rushville Painter is Proving a Nuisance in Many Ohio and Indiana Cities.

Poor Charley Wolf! The world turns the cold shoulder on him and even Death gives him the go by. As often as he has tried to suicide he has been cheated. He is in a sorry plight at Richmond, according to the Palladium of that city which says:

"Before throwing Charles Wolf out upon the mercies of the cold, cold, world, the police department will make an investigation of the man's case and see if some home cannot be found for him. Wolf is the man who has made three attempts at suicide in this city and has tried the same thing at several Ohio cities and at Connersville. He was picked up by the police at Tenth and North A streets last night and taken to the hospital. It was believed he was signing a suicide attempt again. He claims to have been suffering from a spell."

"Wolf says Edward Wolf of North Eighteenth street is his brother and that he has other relatives here. The police will see if his relatives will not take care of him. The man's mentality is believed to be weakened. After an attempt at poisoning by strychnine last summer, Wolf was treated at the Reid Memorial hospital for thirteen weeks. Soon after his release he repeated his stunt, using carbolic acid. The police regard him as a monumental bluff. The last time he was arrested he was fired from the city under penalty of being placed in jail. At Sidney, Piqua and Dayton Wolf was regarded as a nuisance and at Hamilton he gained the name of 'poison king' because of the frequency with which he took poison and his failures to become a victim."

WABASH COLLEGE GLEE CLUB A HIT

Delighted a Large Audience at Paris, Ill., Where They Gave Concert March 12.

VIOLIN SOLOIST A FEATURE

The Paris (Ill.) News of March 13, says of the Wabash College Glee and Mandolin Club that will give a concert in the Main Street Christian church Saturday evening:

"The Wabash College Glee and Mandolin Club of Crawfordsville, Ind., delighted a large audience with their concert at Shoaff's opera house Friday night. The selections were of sufficient variety to eliminate any possible monotony and at the same time were not classical. The work of the mandolin club and the soloists were especially good. One of the features of the evening was the violin solo by W. G. Masters, who played 'Le Cygne.' The soloist responded to an enthusiastic encore with Macdowell's 'To a Wild Rose,' played in perfect tone and rhythm. Mr. Masters manipulates his instrument cleanly and produces a smooth, soft tone which is distinctly pleasing."

TRIBBEY TRIAL WAS IN DANGER

Morris Made a Motion That it be Called Off—Witness Talked With Jurymen.

AND SLEPT AT HIS HOUSE

Tribbey Placed on the Stand Yesterday—Whitcapping Case Was Touched Upon.

Affairs of the Tribbey case took a sensational turn just before adjournment of the circuit court late yesterday and the upshot of the whole matter may be a sudden termination of the case, says the Connersville Courier.

A witness named Morris from Morristown exploded a bomb in the camp of counsel for the defense when he testified in rebuttal that he had lodged with one of the jurors and had talked with him about the case. Morris was giving his testimony when he mentioned the incident. He told of going to the home of John Elliott and remaining with him over night. It appears that the visit of Morris to the juror's home was merely accidental. Morris said that he talked with Elliott about the testimony of a witness, who was examined on Tuesday. The conversation was desultory and apparently had no particular reference to the trial beyond the reference to the testimony of one witness.

Upon hearing these disorders Judge Morris, chief counsel for Tribbey, moved that the jury be dismissed. The hour for adjournment had arrived and no final action was taken on the motion by Judge Gray. Just how the affair will terminate will not be known until today.

The Connersville Examiner has the following to say of the trial:

"The Tribbey case progressed slowly today, still it held the interest of a large crowd. Tribbey was placed on the stand in his own defense this morning and after telling the story of the trouble with his brother-in-law was cross examined for the rest of the day by Mr. Titsworth.

"A good many things besides the trouble the two men have had were gone into. Several times the whitcapping of Tribbey was touched but no details of this affair were recited.

"In order to discredit Tribbey he was asked by the State's attorney a good many questions regarding the trouble he is said to have had with other people. He was asked if he did not try to kill this man, assault another, go after still another with an ax, plead guilty to certain criminal charges in the squire's court at Carthage and finally was asked if he did not threaten to kill at least six witnesses who testified against him in the whitcapping case.

"Tribbey answered all these questions by either saying no or that he did not remember."

WILL ADVERTISE FOR BIDS

County Commissioners in Joint Session With Fayette.

The Fayette county commissioners met in joint session in the court house today with the Rush county commissioners to consider the petition of George A. Looney et al for a macadam road between Glenwood and Crange on the county line. An order was made to advertise for bids for the construction of the road.

PRESIDENT'S UNIQUE GIFT

Album is Made up of Over Two Thousand Newspaper Clippings.

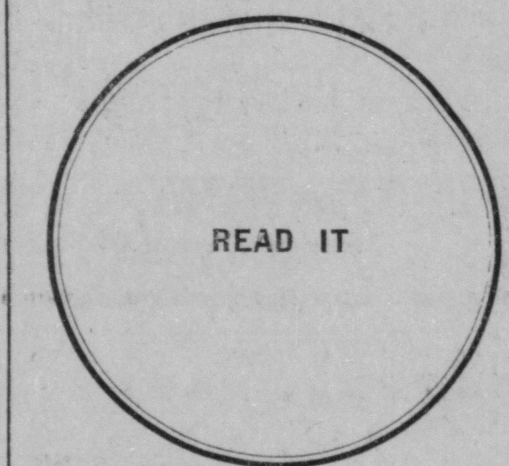

President Roosevelt has just been made the recipient of a handsome album by an admirer, in which are found 2100 clippings from newspapers of the world cruise of the United States battleship fleet. Among them are two editorials from the Rushville Daily Republican.

HOMER COLE MEETS WITH BIG SUCCESS

Together With Evangelist Corter, Has Had Three Hundred Accessions Recently.

HOME ON A BRIEF VACATION

Rev. Corter and Cole, the singing evangelist, says the Greenfield Tribune, will commence a protracted meeting at the Christian church in Charlottesville, Thursday night, April 1. The hearty co-operation of all is asked so that a successful meeting can be held. These men have been holding a meeting with the Christian church at Carthage, and up to Sunday night there were forty-three accessions. This makes about 300 they have added to the Christian churches at Knightsdown, Shirley, Nameless Creek and the meeting at Charlottesville will no doubt be a glorious success.

BILLY BRYAN OUT OF THE RUNNING AGAIN

Race Horse, Bearing Nebraskan's Name, Ran a Nail in His Foot Last Night.

ACCIDENT NOT A SERIOUS ONE

Billy Bryan will be out of the running, for a while at least. That is, the race horse by that name which Harrie Jones is training here. He ran a nail in his foot yesterday, but Dr. Davis, the attending veterinary, says no serious result is anticipated. Billy Bryan won fifteen races out of eighteen starts last season and promises to be "the goods" for 1909.

WATSON SLATED FOR CUBAN POST

President Taft Very Desirous That Rushville Man Accept Ministry to Cuba.

WELL FITTED FOR THE PLACE

Position Pays $12,000 Annually—Watson is Not Anxious to Accept.

(Associated Press.)

Washington, March 17.—President Taft has tendered to former Representative James E. Watson the ministry to Cuba, to which the salary of $12,000 a year is attached. In offering this appointment to Watson the President has given as one of his reasons that it is important, owing to the troublesome conditions in Cuba, that the minister shall be a man who has the faculty of getting along amicably with the natives and whose tactfulness can be relied upon to brush away war clouds. He thinks Mr. Watson's peculiar characteristics would fit him admirably for the mission.

The President, it is said, would like to close the matter and announce Watson's appointment officially. The only obstacle standing in the way is Watson's unwillingness to accept the job. There is an aristocratic society in Havana, and the expenses of the ministry are very great. He feels that he cannot afford to accept.

The Cuban post is the one which President Taft has picked out especially for Watson and he hopes Watson finally will accept, but he is holding open for the Indiana man the offer of the governorship of Porto Rico. The salary of Governor of Porto Rico is $8000 a year and a palatial residence is furnished for his use.

If Watson decides to accept either of these posts there will be no objection from any quarter. His preference is the governorship of Porto Rico, notwithstanding the salary is less.

Temporarily the former whip of the House will remain in Washington, as he has been authorized to look after the interests of some of the Indian tribes of Oklahoma in a few important cases which they have against the government. He expects to stay here two weeks at least.

Speaker Cannon called at the White House and the President expressed to him the hope that Watson will accept the Cuban ministry. The speaker said he did not think the former whip would do so.

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, March 18.—Many of the schools in the southern half of Indiana will be compelled to close before the end of the regular 120-day term because the state has no fund available for their support. The deficiency fund, amounting to $129,000 at the opening of the present school year, now contains but $39. Attorney General Bingham has rendered an opinion that the state auditor can draw on other funds to keep the schools going. Superintendent of Public Instruction Aleigh has sent out notices to that effect to counties that are clamoring for aid. The deficiency fund was created in 1905 to help the poor counties. Five and three-tenths per cent of the school fund tax was set aside then for them. It was provided that the fund should be used to help pay teachers in counties where the local tuition levy was 40 cents, and the township trustee did not have enough funds. This law was amended in 1907 so that the deficiency fund could apply to counties where the local tuition levy was 25 cents. The new law left in counties that had not been helped before, and they have exhausted the fund. Some of the poor counties have drawn more from the deficiency fund than they have paid into the state treasury from all sources. Crawford county, for instance, paid in $12,000 this year to the state and drew out $32,000. No counties in the northern half of the state have asked for help.

Burt New, who was on the Democratic state ticket last year for reporter of the supreme and appellate courts, is here to investigate a story to the effect that he agreed to help call off the contest of the Democrats for state offices in return for Republican support for a measure creating a $3,600-a-year attorney's job in connection with Governor Marshall's office. Ten days ago Governor Marshall notified New and the public that he would withhold the appointment of New as his special counsel so there might be ample opportunity to go to the bottom of the report. The governor intends to appoint New unless he is shown that New had a deal with the Republicans. "The charge about the deal is absolutely false," said New today. "I have come to Indianapolis to meet any written substantiation which might be filed with the governor, but I find that no charges have been filed. I withdrew from the contest for state office because I knew that with the house Democratic and the senate Republican the contest would be hopeless. There was no other reason." New says that the reported deal not only reflects on his honor, but that of the governor, and he is here to meet any senator who will come forward and declare that he agreed to withdraw from the contest in return for support of the attorney's bill.

A Washington dispatch today says that President Taft has tendered to James E. Watson, who made the losing race for governor in the Indiana campaign, the ministry to Cuba, to which the salary of $12,000 a year is attached. In offering this appointment to Watson the president, it is said, has given as one of his reasons that it is important, owing to troublesome conditions in Cuba, that the minister shall be a man who has the faculty of getting along amicably with the natives and whose tactfulness can be relied upon to brush away war clouds. He thinks Mr. Watson's peculiar characteristics would fit him admirably for the mission. The president, it is said, would like to close the matter and announce Watson's appointment officially. The only obstacle standing in the way is Watson's unwillingness to accept the job. There is an aristocratic society in Havana and the expenses of the ministry are very great. Being a poor man, he feels that he cannot afford to accept. It is further said that the president is holding open for the Indiana man the offer of the governorship of Porto Rico. The salary of governor of Porto Rico is $8,000 a year and a palatial residence is furnished for his use. Watson's preference is said to be the governorship of Porto Rico, notwithstanding the salary is less.

The funeral of David Eley of Decatur, who was the father of the law enacted in 1886 to prohibit the playing of baseball on Sunday, was held yesterday. Eley was a member of the legislature from 1882 to 1886, and his Sunday baseball act withstood all attacks until the recent session, when it was repealed. The Indianapolis Ministers' association is trying to raise a fund to sustain Eley's law.

Reggio Again Shaken.

Reggio, March 18.—A strong earth shock was felt here yesterday. It was especially severe at Pellare and other small villages along the coast, causing great alarm among the people. The shock seems to have been accompanied by a particularly high tide, as both here and on the coast near Brindisi small boats were carried high and dry upon the land and wrecked. There were no casualties.

STEVENSON HAS NOT MADE A CASE

This Is Report of Committee In Governorship Contest.

DISMISSAL IS RECOMMENDED

Illinois Senate Committee Holds That the Petition of Adlai Stevenson For a Recount of the Votes Cast For Governor Last Fall Did Not Present a Prima Facie Case, and Recommends That the Petition Be Dismissed—Hopkins Still Outside the Breastworks.

Springfield, Ill., March 18.—The recount committee of the senate adopted a report holding that the petition of Adlai Stevenson for a recount of votes cast for governor last fall in Illinois did not present a prima facie case. The report was drafted by former Senator Berry, who represented Governor Deneen in the contest and was submitted by Senator Jones.

After reciting the main contentions of the petition, the report detailed the failure of the contestant to file a bill of particulars. The closing paragraphs of the report contains a recommendation that the recount petition be dismissed. A minority report was offered by Senator Isley of Newton as a substitute.

On the forty-fifth joint ballot for United States senator the vote was: Hopkins, 77; Foss, 18; Shurtleff, 18; Stringer, 42; Mason, 4; Lowden, 2; W. B. McKinley, 2; Sherman, 2; Calhoun, 1; F. P. Morris, 24; J. J. Callahan, 3. No choice.

SHOT IN COLD BLOOD

Negro Deliberately Uses Gun on By-stander at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, March 18.—Patrick Carroll, a sawmaker, was the victim of the most deliberate murder in the history of this city. Carroll was shot down in cold blood by James N. Shelton, a negro Pullman porter, at the southeast corner of Illinois and Washington streets, in the presence of hundreds of people.

Shelton is locked up at police headquarters charged with murder in the first degree. He is feigning insanity. Police surgeons say he is not insane, but that possibly, at the time of the murder, he was suffering from the effects of alcoholic insanity.

Carroll was on his way to work at the Atkins saw works. He was standing at the corner waiting for a car when Shelton walked up to him and fired a bullet into his back. As he fell Shelton fired another bullet into Carroll's chest. Carroll was hurried to the hospital, where he died a few minutes later.

The negro calmly turned around, faced the crowd and replaced his revolver in his pocket. No one seems to have noticed the negro approaching Carroll. As soon as the shots were fired the crowd became excited. Attention was quickly directed to the negro standing over Carroll's body. The negro made no move to escape.

A patrolman was standing across the street when the shots were fired and he immediately took the gun-friend in charge. Shelton admitted that he had never seen Carroll before, and his deed is taken as an act of pure malignancy. Carroll was a highly respected young man and leaves a young widow, who is distracted at her sudden and shocking bereavement.

POSTOFFICE ROBBED

Cracksmen at Crown Point Were Evidently Professionals.

Crown Point, Ind., March 18.—Two safes were blown in the postoffice here and the robbers obtained about $75 in cash and stamps. One safe belonged to the town treasurer, who has offices in the same building, but this safe contained nothing but books and papers. Both safes were demolished. The robbers stole a valuable driving horse owned by former County Treasurer L. E. Bailey, with which to make their escape. Hammond reports that the robbers abandoned the buggy two miles outside that city, where it was found by Sheriff Wood. The men walked to Hammond and took a train to Chicago. Part of the stolen plunder was found in the buggy.

Charged With Embezzlement.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 18.—Louis Merriweather, former clerk of the Cumberland county (Illinois) circuit court, was arrested here accused of the embezzlement of $1,400. His bondsmen caused his arrest. He moved here a month ago.

Barn and Six Horses Burned.

Knightstown, Ind., March 18.—The barn on the farm of O. W. Wrighter, five miles southwest of here, burned and six head of farm horses, farm implements, wagons and buggies were destroyed. The loss is about $1,300.

Gagle Sentenced For Life.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 18.—William Gagle was found guilty by a jury in the circuit court of killing Lizzie Schroeder, eleven years old, of Tolleston. He was sentenced to the Michigan City penitentiary for life.

Notice of the Improvement of Highway in Center Township, Rush County, Indiana.

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed in my office for the draining, grading and graveling of highway in Center Township, Rush County, Indiana, which petition is in words and figures as follows, to-wit:

To the Board of Commissioners of Rush County, Indiana:

The undersigned, petitioners, resident freeholders and voters in Center Township, in said county and State, would respectfully represent and show to the Board that more than fifty of their number are resident freeholders and voters of Center Township, Rush County, Indiana, and that Center Township does not contain an incorporated city or town of more than 30,000 inhabitants.

Your petitioners would further show to the Board that there is a public highway in said township, extending in an easterly and westerly direction from a place commonly called "Five Points," to a place west, commonly known as "Shively's Corner," or Six Points, a distance of two and one-half miles, and that all of said highway, as hereinafter described, is now and for many years has been used by the public as a highway. And your petitioners hereby ask that the said public highway, as hereinafter described, be improved by grading, draining and graveling with a good sharp gravel to a width of the roadway as now laid out, the following described road, to-wit:

Commencing at a point located at the intersections of the Rushville and Center improved gravel highway with the Rhodes pike and the Mays and Carthage Road, between sections eighteen (18) and nineteen (19), in range ten (10), east, and township fifteen (15), north, about one hundred and fifty (150) rods east of the range line, between ranges nine (9) and ten (10), thence said road extends westward from place of beginning over and along said road running between sections eighteen (18) and nineteen (19) and sections thirteen (13) and twenty-four (24), and sections fourteen (14) and twenty-third (23), in range nine (9), east, and township fifteen (15), north, to a point located at the northwest corner of section twenty-third (23), and the southwest corner of section fourteen (14) and the northeast corner of section twenty-two (22), and the southeast corner of section fifteen (15), in range nine (9), east, and township fifteen (15), north, and to the intersection of the Carthage and Mays road with the Rushville and Knights-town pike.

Said petitioners would represent that said above described highway constitutes one continuous highway, and that said highway, as above described, is not improved and that the total length of said highway here described is less than three (3) miles, and that said highway proposed to be improved connects on the west with an improved free gravel road, and connects on the east with an improved free gravel road. And that said road, when so improved, will be of public utility.

Now is the time for citizens to demonstrate their local pride by cleaning up the winter's debris about their premises. It would improve appearances and save the health officer the trouble of reminding them about it later.

Men of intelligence, whether they agree with him or not, admire a man who has honest convictions and is not afraid to express them, whether this expression is made from the pulpit or public rostrum or through the public press.

They may criticize his judgment, but nevertheless they admire his courage.

This is practically true of the preacher and the public speaker; but with the local newspapers, the case is somewhat different. The fearless, courageous, independent newspaper is admired and respected by the man who stops to think, but with many a slight jolt through the local press causes a deep wound that creates a thirst for vengeance and a desire to punish the editor.

The speaker may rail at us from the platform or the preacher may rail at us from the pulpit, but we pass it up, while the effect is soon lost and forgotten. But with the newspaper the first impulse is to cancel the subscription to the paper, withdraw our advertising patronage and have our printing done elsewhere.

Just why this is, cannot be explained, but is true, says the Madison Eagle. It is only human nature. We are quick to condemn any newspaper which permits its editorial columns to be dictated by mercenary motives by a political leader, or by others for any consideration; but when a local paper takes a firm stand on any question of public concern men will admire and applaud as long as it hits the other fellow but when it does not agree with their pet theories they are soon after the editor's scalp.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

A "BALLING" OUT.

(Greensburg Graphic.)

Sight unseen will be the marriage of Miss Bessie Ball of Rushville, who has gone to Portsmouth, Va., to marry a man she has never seen, known only by correspondence. Mitigating circumstances not published may excuse such rash foolishness.

FLOWERS FOR SPARKS.

(Greenfield Reporter.)

The lawyers who took part in the trial recently ended after thirty days strenuous work at Rushville and which resulted in the breaking of the will of the late Noble Howard, are accused of having formed a mutual admiration society before they returned to Greenfield. Each of them has difficulty in finding language he wishes to extend to its associates in the trial. According to the attorneys every argument before the jury was the best possible and the conduct of the examination of the witnesses was as gentle as a spring lamb.

Judge Sparks, too, comes in for a share of the compliments and all agree that he was fair in his decisions, prompt and courtesy predominated throughout the month the Greenfield men were in his court.

Smart Tips For Men

A novelty in scarf pins is attracting much attention among men who wish to have their jewelry harmonize with the scarf that they are wearing. The new pin has transferable sets that may be changed so as to correspond with the tie being worn.

Fancy waistcoats with wide facings of darker material than the body of the coat promise to become popular with men who are inclined to wear bright garments.

Cloth top shoes are being shown in many of the leading shoe stores. They are held to be stylish, and what's more, are said to be very comfortable.

Shirts with stripes of many colors, making a harmonious effect, are meeting with much favor.

Light felt hats in grays are bidding for favor. All shapes and styles are being displayed.

Pinenles are for Backache, and bring quick relief to lumbago, rheumatism, fatigue and all other symptoms of Kidney diseases. They are a tonic to the entire system and build up strength and health. Price 50c and $1.00. Sold by Lytle's Drug Store.

Large Crowd in Attendance at Old Church Hall Last Night—Rev. Lyons, the Speaker.

HARP SOLOS WERE A FEATURE

The St. Patrick's day entertainment last night in the old Catholic church hall was attended by a large number of people. Father Lyons of Brownsburg, the principal speaker of the evening, delivered a short address on St. Patrick. The audience was royally entertained by Miss Holbrook, a harpist of Cincinnati, who rendered several pleasing selections. Attorney Dennis O'Neil made the address of welcome.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. She cast her despairing eyes up and down the river, then at the wilderness on either shore, but it was as silent and unpeopled as if it had been created that morning. She must have time. She would temporize, pretending to yield, and then betray him to the first comer. A promise exacted under duress would not be binding.

"I'll go quietly," she said in a faint voice.

"I knew you'd see that I'm acting square. Come! Get the camp out of yourself while I make a pot of coffee." He held out his hand to assist her, and she accepted it, but stumbled as she rose, for she had been crouched in one position for several hours, and her limbs were stiff. He caught her and swung her ashore. Then, instead of putting her feet to the ground, he pressed her to himself roughly and kissed her. She gave a stifled cry and fought him off, but he laughed and held her the closer.

"No, no, no!" she gasped, writhing like a wild thing, but he crushed his lips to hers again and then let her go, whereupon she drew away from him panting, disheveled, her eyes wide and filled with horror. She scrubbed her lips with the back of her hand, as if to erase his mark, while he reached into the canoe and brought forth an ax, a bundle of food and a coffeepot. Then, still chuckling, he gathered a few sticks of driftwood and built a fire. She had a blind instinct to flee and sought for a means of escape, but they were well out upon the bar that stretched a distance of 300 feet to the wooded bank. On one side of the narrow spit was the scarcely moving, half stagnant water of a tiny bay or eddy; on the other the swift, gliding current tugging at the beached canoe, while the outer end of the graveled ridge dwindled down to nothing and disappeared into the river. An instant later, when he turned to the clearer water of the eddy to fill the coffeepot, she seized her chance and sped up the bar toward the bank. The shingle under foot and her noisy skirts betrayed her, and with an oath he followed. It was an unequal race, and he handled her with rough strong hands when he overtook her.

"So! You lied to me! Well, I'm through with this foolishness. If you'll go back on your word like this you'll 'bawl me out' before the priest, so I'll forget my promise, too, and you'll be glad of the chance to marry me."

"Let me go!" she panted. "I'll marry you. Yes, yes, I'll do it, only don't touch me now!"

He led her back to the fire, which had begun to crackle. She was so weak now that she sank upon the stones shivering.

"That's right. Sit down and behave while I make something hot to drink. You're all in." After a time he continued as he busied himself about his task: "Say, you ought to be glad to get me. I've got a lot of money, or I will have, and once you're Mrs. Runnion nobody'll ever know about this or think of you as a squaw."

He was still talking when the girl sprang to her feet and sent a shrill cry out over the river, but instantly he was up and upon her, his hand over her mouth, while she tore at it, screaming the name of Poleon Doret. He silenced her to a smothered, sobbing mumble and turned to see, far out on the bosom of the great soiled river, a man in a bark canoe. The craft had just swung past the bend above and was still a long way off, so far away, in fact, that Necia's signal had not reached it, for its occupant held unwaveringly to the swiftest channel, his body rising and falling in the smooth, unending rhythm of a master boatman under great haste, his arms upflung now and then as the paddle glinted and flashed across to the opposite side.

Runnion glanced about hurriedly, then cursed as he saw no place of concealment. The Peterborough stood out upon the bar conspicuously, as did he and the girl. But the chance remained that this man, whoever he was, would pass by, for his speed was great, the river a mile in width and the bend sharp. Necia had cried Poleon's name, but her companion saw no resemblance to the Frenchman in this strange looking voyager. In fact, he could not quite make out what was peculiar about the man—perhaps his eyes were not as sharp as hers—and then he saw that the boatman was naked to the waist. By now he was drawing opposite them with the speed of a bound.

The girl, gagged and held by her captor's hands, struggled and moaned despairingly, and, crouching back of the boat, they might have escaped discovery in the gray morning light had it not been for the telltale fire—a tiny, crackling blaze no larger than a man's hat. It betrayed them. The dancing craft upon which their eyes were fixed whipped about, almost leaping from the water at one stroke, then came toward them, now nothing but a narrow thing, half again the width of a man's body. The current carried it down abreast of them, then past, and Runnion rose, releasing the girl, who cried out with all her might to the boatman. He made no sound in reply, but drove his canoe shoreward with quicker strokes. It was evident he would effect his landing near the lower end of the spit, for now he was within hearing distance and driving closer every instant.

Necia heard the gambler call: "Sheer off, Doret! You can't land here!"

She saw a gun in Runnion's hand, and a terrible, sickening fear swept over her, for he was slowly walking down the spit, keeping abreast of the canoe as it drifted.

"Keep away or I'll fire!" threatened Runnion again, and she screamed: "Don't try it, Poleon! He'll kill you!"

At her words Runnion raised his weapon and fired. She heard the woods behind reverberate with the echoes like a sounding board, saw the white spurt of smoke and the skitter of the bullet as it went wide. It was a long shot and had been fired as a final warning, but Doret made no outcry, nor did he cease coming. Instead his paddle clove the water with the same steady strokes that took every ounce of effort in his body. Runnion threw open his gun and replaced the spent shell. On came the careening, crazy craft in a sidewise drift, and with it the girl saw coming a terrible tragedy. She started to run down the graveled ridge behind her enemy, not realizing the value or moment of her action nor knowing clearly what she would do, but as she drew near she saw Runnion raise his gun again and without thought of her own safety threw herself upon him. Again his shot went wide as he strove to hurl her off, but his former taste of her strength was nothing to this show that she fought for Poleon's life. Runnion snarled angrily and thrust her away, for he had waited till the canoe was close.

"Let me go, you devil!" he cried and aimed again. But again she ran at him. This time, however, she did not pit her strength against his, but paused, and as he undertook to fire she thrust at his elbow, then dodged out of his way. Her blow was crafty and well timed, and his shot went wild. Again he took aim, and again she destroyed it with a touch and danced out of his reach. She was nimble and light and quickened now by a cold calculation of all that depended upon her.

Three times in all she thwarted Runnion, while the canoe drove closer every instant. On the fourth, as she dashed at him, he struck to be rid of her, cursing wickedly—struck as he would have struck at a man. Silently she crumpled up and fell, a pitiful, dragged, awkward little figure sprawled upon the rocks. But the delay proved fatal to him, for, though the canoe was close against the bank and the huge man in it seemed to offer a mark too plain to be missed, he was too close to permit careful aim. Runnion heard him giving utterance to a strange, feral, whining sound, as if he were crying like a fighting boy. Then as the gambler raised his arm the Canadian lifted himself up on the bottom of the canoe until he stood stretched to his full height and leaped. As Runnion fired he sprang out and was into the water to his knees, his backward kick whirling the craft from underneath him out into the current where the river seized it. He had risen and jumped all in one moment launching himself at the shore like a panther. The gun roared again, but Poleon came up and on with the rush of the great brown grizzly that no missile can stop. Runnion's weapon blazed in his face, but he neither felt nor heeded it, for his bare hands were upon his quarry, the impact of his body hurling the other from his feet and neither of them knew whether any or all of the last bullets had taken effect.

Poleon had come, like an arrow, straight for his mark the instant he glimpsed it, an insensate, unreasoning raging thing that no weight of lead nor length of blade could stop. In his haste he had left Flambreau without weapon of any kind, for in his mind such things are superfluous, and he had never fought with any but those God gave him nor found any living thing that his hands could not master. Therefore he had rushed headlong against this armed and waiting man, reaching for him ever closer and closer till the burning powder stung his eyes. They grappled and fought, alone and unseen, and yet it was no fight, for Runnion, though a vigorous heavy muscled man, was beaten down, smothered and crushed beneath the onslaught of this great naked fellow who all the time sobbed and whined and mewed in a pining fury.

They swung half across the spit to the farther side, where they fell in a fantastic convulsion, slipping and sliding and rolling among the rocks that smote and gouged and bruised them. The gambler fought for his life against the naked flesh of the other, against the distorted face that snapped and bit like the muzzle of a wolf, while all the time he heard that fearful, inarticulate note of blood hunger at his ear. The Canadian's clinched hands crushed whatever they fell upon as if mallet with metal. The fingers were like tearing tongs that could not be loosed. It was a frightful combat, hideous from its inequality, like the battle of a man against a maddened beast whose teeth tore and whose claws ripped, whose every move was irresistible. And so it was over shortly.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—as the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics. Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no phlegm, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promises may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 10 boxes for the pocket, also in 25¢ boxes of 48 Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

CHIEF JUSTICE FULLER'S SLIP

Made Taft on Inauguration Day Swear to "Execute" the Constitution.

"To execute the constitution." That is what William H. Taft swore to do when he was inaugurated president of the United States. It became known only recently that in administering the oath Chief Justice Fuller made a slight slip. The oath as prescribed reads:

"I, William Howard Taft, do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States and will to the best of my ability preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

Chief Justice Fuller, it is now learned, in speaking the oath for Mr. Taft to repeat, phrase by phrase, so uttered it that he said:

"And I will to the best of my ability preserve, protect and execute the constitution of the United States."

Mr. Taft repeated it exactly as Chief Justice Fuller said and then, bending, kissed the Bible. Senator Knox, who was standing beside him as the oath was administered, noticed the deviation from the prescribed oath and nudged him, saying softly:

"Don't do it."

Of course the slight error made no difference in the validity of the oath, but it is being recalled with a smile about the White House because of the well known fact that Mr. Taft has a larger regard for constitutional limitations than some other presidents have shown.

Bryan's Jet Black Stove Polish.

Is the best stove polish on the market. This is not our own verdict, alone, but that of a constantly increasing number of users who really constitute the "court of last appeal" in the matter of the utility of any article. Bryan's Jet Black is easy to apply, shines with least polishing, gives a lasting jet black lustre which make the stove a "thing of beauty." This polish is not only clean, smokeless, dustless and odorless, but it lengthens the life of any stove. Manufactured in both liquid and paste form. For sale wherever stove polishes are sold. 304t12

FRANCE WITHOUT COMMUNICATION

Postal and Telegraph Facilities Suspended.

MORE COMPLICATIONS TODAY

Letter Carriers of Paris Put in Their

Forces Today With the Telegraphers and Other Postal Bureau Employees, and the Situation Is Rendered Serious—The Government Reasserts Its Determination Not to Treat With Strikers, and the End of the Difficulty Is Not in Sight.

Paris, March 18.—The letter carriers have joined the strike of the telegraphers, the telephone operators and mail clerks employed by the postoffice department. At a meeting last night they voted by a large majority to begin a strike today after the first delivery. Eight hundred postmen employed in the delivery of newspapers and parcels, went out after the last distribution last night.

The strike movement has gained greatly, Paris being practically isolated from the rest of France and France from the outside world. Eight thousand strikers met last night and passed a resolution to maintain the struggle to the bitter end.

Premier Clemenceau declares that the government is ready for a fight and will not recede in its determination to force the strikers to the wall. A very serious situation, however, has arisen through the inability of the government to communicate with its foreign representatives, and last night the strikers cut the private telephone wire connecting the Elysee palace with the various ministries. Troops are held in readiness at Versailles to reinforce the Paris troops in case any demonstrations of a serious nature occur. There is an alarming rumor that the secretary of the Railroad Employees' union has promised to order out these men in a sympathetic strike.

The sympathy of the public is against the strikers, as it is considered that their grievances are trifling compared with the interests that are suffering. There appears to be no danger of violence, unless the labor organizations, whose leaders are anxious to form a bond of union with the state employees, attempt a demonstration.

Only two men are now working on the trunk telephone line to London. It is expected that within a few hours all of the employees of the post, telegraph, telephone and pneumatic systems will be out. Telephone service to Italy has ceased. It is estimated that throughout the country not less than 10,000,000 letters and 250,000 telegrams are held up.

The situation in the provinces cannot be considered much better, the public service employees in most of the larger cities following the lead of their Paris comrades. The international and interurban mails are at a standstill, entailing heavy business losses.

DEFENDING INDIANS

Senator Owen Takes Up Cudgels in Behalf of Nation's Wards.

Chandler, Okla., March 18.—A suit brought by Senator Robert L. Owen, involving the title to 35,000 tracts of land valued at two millions dollars, has had its first hearing. The suit was filed in behalf of a number of Indians who, when they became of age, claimed their allotments which had been sold by their guardians. A. R. Darrough of Arnettville, is named as defendant.

Drove Him to Despair.

Danville, Ill., March 18.—Driven to despair as a result of his wife's filing a divorce complaint against him, Francis B. Harrington, aged twenty-six years, who came here from Indianapolis three months ago and on two weeks' acquaintance eloped to Urbana, Ill., with eighteen-year-old Ruby Kirkpatrick, committed suicide at his home here. Harrington's young wife, who was formerly a member of the most exclusive social circles in Danville, filed a complaint for divorce in which she charged cruelty.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 18.—Harry D. Brown, a well-known broker, has been missing since Monday, and a felony warrant for his arrest is in the hands of city detectives. Brown's liabilities are said to amount to nearly $200,000.

A MONEY-BACK HAIR GROWER AND DANDRUFF CURE.

Read what Mrs. H. Lawrence, 158 W. 17th street, Holland, Mich., writes about the marvelous results obtained from the use of Parisian Sage, the delightful hair tonic, which is now on sale all over America.

"For several months my hair had been falling out, and dandruff also appeared. I used some so-called hair tonics and renewers, but never received relief from the scalp disease until I procured Parisian Sage, and used it for about two weeks. Parisian Sage made the hair stop falling out, and caused it to grow in quite heavily, stopped the dandruff, and made the scalp cool, clean, and comfortable. It also eases the hair silky, and does not make it stiff or sticky. I endorse the use of Parisian Sage. It is all right."—October 30, 1908.

F. B. Johnson & Co. are the agents for Parisian Sage in Rushville and they think so well of it that they guarantee it to cure dandruff, falling or splitting hair or itching of scalp, in two weeks or money back. It will make any woman's hair soft and luxuriant in a few days. Price 50¢ a large bottle at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s, or direct, all charges prepaid, from the American makers, the Gironx Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

BOON FOR ARID LANDS

Professor Hansen Returns With Seeds of Arctic Alfalfa.

FARMERS WILL BE GAINERS.

Agricultural Department's Chief Plant Explorer Tells of Hardy Varieties That Will Grow in Dry Sections of United States—Grapes Suitable For Semiarid Regions Also Found.

Niels Ebbesen Hansen, professor of horticulture at the State College of Agriculture, Brookings, S. D., and chief plant explorer for the department of agriculture at Washington, recently returned from his third journey into northern Asia, bringing back three new varieties of arctic alfalfa, a clover that will grow through ice and a grape that is suitable to the semiarid regions of the United States. Professor Hansen has spent several years hunting through ancient and faroff countries of the world for useful plants, grains and fruits that we do not have in the United States, but are suitable to the climate of our northern latitudes and will furnish our farmers with greater opportunities to diversify their crops and practice a rotation which will not exhaust the soil.

Professor Hansen has explored Russia, Siberia, Turkistan, Mongolia, Manchuria, western China, Japan, Transcaucasia, Persia, Lapland, Finland and other countries in search of plant life that will endure the cold climate of our northern border and flourish in the dry air of the semiarid regions of the west and has been remarkably successful.

He started May 28, 1908, upon his latest expedition, from which he returned a short time ago, going first to Moscow, where he organized a little expedition of four assistants, who are familiar with the languages as well as of the botany of northern Asia. With them he started eastward, crossing Siberia into Chinese territory and traversing Mongolia and Manchuria. He returned by way of southern Siberia and through the foothills of the Altai mountains and made a journey of 400 miles by wagon across the northern part of the desert of Gobi and the Hunger desert of Turkistan. Then, when he reached the Mediterranean, he visited the desert of Sahara, looking for plants that will grow in dry climates.

"The object of my journey was especially to find hardy alfalfas that will grow in the colder regions of our northwestern states," said Professor Hansen. "We wanted the northernmost plants of Asia for the farmers of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota and Montana, who lose millions of dollars from the excessive cold and open winters without snow. Two years ago, when I visited a part of the same country that I have been visiting the last year, I found three varieties of yellow flower alfalfa which grow in latitudes as high as 62 degrees 50 minutes, across the arctic circle. I got some seed of one of the varieties, which is being tested at the experimental stations of the agricultural department, and this time I got a good supply of all three, but they will not go out of government hands for some time yet, until our experiments are complete and we have had an opportunity to determine which are the best soils and climate for them to grow in. We are constantly receiving applications for this and other seeds, but it will be several years before they are ready for distribution.

"I had considerable difficulty in collecting seed, because most of the alfalfa grows wild, sparsely scattered over desert land, and that which is cultivated is so valuable to the farmers that they do not want to let their seed go. The farms are few and widely separated in most of the countries I visited, and the farmers treasure these plants. I was treated with the greatest kindness by everybody, both the officials and the people. In some places, however, particularly in Mongolia, it was necessary for me to have a Cossack escort for protection as well as for guides."

"What is the most interesting thing you found on your journey?" I asked. "The most interesting things I found were a clover plant and an alfalfa growing near the point of greatest cold in northern Asia. It was between Yakutsk and Verkhoyansk, north of Lake Balkal, on the sixty-second parallel of latitude. Clover and alfalfa grow wild there and live through the winters where the temperature falls to 60 and 75 degrees below zero and the mercury freezes in the glass. They are not cultivated at all. There are no farms in that region. The people are nomads and have no towns.

"I got my seed a little farther south, where the mercury freezes every winter at 40 below, and both plants will endure that degree of cold with the ground bare of snow. I brought a limited amount of the seed and will plant it at the experimental stations of the agricultural department, so as to raise a supply for distribution among the farmers of our own northwest, but it will be several years before the distribution can be made, because we must have it thoroughly tested before we can let any of it go into private hands."

"You got other seeds and plants?" I asked. "Yes. I got 250 lots of seeds and plants, all of economic value, mainly for the northern sections of the United States, to help the farmers in securing a rotation of crops, so that their land may not be idle and the soil may not be exhausted. Other seeds and plants in my collection will be valuable in 'dry farming' and in fruit culture and in the semiarid and northern sections of the country. One of the alfalfas will be a great thing to sow in the clearings in northern Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Maine, where the timber has been cut away. It is especially adapted for that sort of soil and conditions.

"After returning to Russia I shipped my seeds and plants from Riga to Washington via Copenhagen and then returned to Moscow to get ready for a trip into Turkistan and Persia to look for Persian clover, which is one of the best of the fodder plants of India and other rainless regions. The Russians are introducing it into all of their arid sections. My journey from Moscow to Tashkend, the capital of Turkistan, was made by railway via Orenberg over a newly built track which the Russians have recently constructed in order to bring a food supply and raw cotton into their markets.

"I got a good supply of Persian clover seed and expect to get more. It is especially suitable for western Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and the western parts of our cotton belt.

"I visited eight different nations, traveling several hundred miles among the Mohammedans and picking up what I could. That country has been sealed up by Russia, and the officers do not allow foreigners to go in there, so that I had to get a special permit. But everybody was very courteous and helpful, both the officials and the people, and I had no trouble at all.

"Since the opening of the new railway the people have secured access to outside markets and are now shipping some extraordinary grapes from Turkistan called the 'maskah.' They are grown under irrigation and have been cultivated by the Mohammedans for raisins and table use for ages, but they have never been shipped out of the country, and the seeds and cuttings have not been accessible to foreigners before. The maskah is a very large grape with a superior flavor—much larger than our Hamburg grape. I got some vines and cuttings, which I hope will be of value to the Californians and other people in semiarid regions. I obtained a number of other varieties, including two seedless grapes, bigger than any we have now, which will be the subjects of experiment by the agricultural department, but it will be several years before we can distribute any of them to private growers.

"I came home across ancient Transcaucasia, via Tiflis and Batum, over the Caspian sea, and took a steamer for Marseilles which stops at many ports to discharge and take on cargoes, so that I had an opportunity to go ashore and see a good deal. I left the steamer at Corsica and went over into Italy to study the lucernes, which are the alfalfas of Greece and Italy. From Marseilles I went to Algiers and made a journey into the heart of the desert of Sahara to study the alfalfas there.

"I brought some seed from that desert also. The Arabs have grown alfalfa as fodder for ages. It was carried over into Spain by the Moors from Africa, from there to South America and Central America and Mexico, and from there to California, and that is the roundabout way in which alfalfa was introduced into the United States. At the town of Biskra, in the desert of Sahara, from the Arabs I got a quantity of the seed of the original alfalfa. A part of it will be experimented with by the department of agriculture, and I will take a part to Dakota, where we will use it in the evolution that is being carried on by our plant breeders.

"The ideal alfalfa of the future will be a hybrid of all the alfalfas of the world—the wild and cultivated species from four continents and from all climates. We now have the best materials, and by the proper use of them we ought to be able to produce the final variety for those sections of the United States where a perennial leguminous forage is needed with which to feed our future meat supply."

LOFTY DANCING FLOOR.

Feature of the Opening of Queensboro Bridge at New York.

A plan for turning the upper section of the new Queensboro bridge at New York into an immense dancing pavilion during the week of celebrating the public opening of that structure was recently announced by the committee having the celebration in charge.

It is proposed to lay a dancing floor over the top of the main thoroughfare. The floor is to be as wide as the structure and is to run along the span a distance of 1,182 feet. A canvas shelter will be provided, and six bands will make music for the dancers. Three bands will be stationed in the tower on the Manhattan side of Blackwell's island and three bands in the tower on the Queens side. The bridge will be illuminated from end to end.

The dancing program for the carnival will open with a fancy dress ball June 12 and close with a roller skating carnival June 19. Prizes are to be offered for the handsomest woman, the best dancer and other features.

First Blue Fox Crop.
August Soucie recently left Albany, Ore., for Alaska to superintend the first wholesale killing of blue foxes that ever occurred in the world. It will take place on a small island off the Alaskan coast where the fox company conducts the unique industry of a blue fox farm. Soucie will direct the slaughter of about 600 blue foxes for the purpose of marketing rare and valuable furs. This blue fox farm is conducted on Hound Island, which lies near Admiralty island, on which Sitka, capital of Alaska, is situated, and five miles from the town of Kake, on Kupreanof island, which is the nearest port.

CONSIDERATION OF TARIFF BILL

Ways and Means Committee Takes It Up Today.

PROBABLY ONLY ONE SITTING

After Formal Consideration of the New Tariff Measure, Committee Will Probably Report Bill to the House, Where Its Reading Committee of the Whole Will Begin—Measure Will Probably Be Before the House From Ten Days to Two Weeks.

Washington, March 18.—The full membership of the house committee on ways and means, including Democrats as well as Republicans, met at 10 o'clock this morning for the formal consideration of the Payne tariff bill. The senate committee on finance at the same time began informal consideration of the measure.

The probabilities are that the house committee will have only one sitting on the bill, that the measure will then be reported to the house, and that its formal reading in committee of the whole will soon begin. General debate will be postponed until Monday if Mr. Payne's present program is followed, and after that time the measure probably will be before the house from ten days to two weeks.

To Follow New Course.

This plan of operation is slightly different from that which has been followed in the consideration of other tariff bills of recent years, and it had been expected that the Democratic members of the committee would be afforded more time than is now contemplated for the consideration of the bill in committee. It is still possible that if they insist upon delay and succeed in presenting good reasons for their request they may be accommodated. Mr. Clark said that he would make every effort in the committee, as he would on the floor of the house, to have the bill amended, and for that reason would ask for longer time. He added, however, that he would not press for more time for the preparation of a minority report, as that could be formulated as well after the bill had been reported as before.

Mr. Payne's inclination is to get the bill into the house at the earliest practicable moment, and his plans are so complete that it is not believed he will yield for a mere plea to offer amendments, which the minority as well as the majority know will not be accepted. It is probable that a compromise will be reached and that the Democratic members will accept a proposition which will permit them to present their amendments on the floor. Mr. Clark indicated that his principal plea would be for that privilege.

Democrats Gain Concession.
He said he did not consider general debate as of nearly as much importance as the discussion of the bill paragraph by paragraph with the opportunity to suggest changes in the various schedules. It is therefore probable that if Mr. Payne and his fellow Republican members of the committee concede this privilege, the Democrats will accept it in lieu of a similar privilege in committee and make no serious protest against the immediate reporting of the bill.

No announcement as to the length of time that will be given for debate has been made, and Mr. Payne is quite wary on this point. The Dingley bill was under discussion in the house for only ten days, and of that time four days were devoted to general debate. It was considered under a rule fixing the hours of meeting, limiting the time of debate and prescribing the method of offering amendments. The Democrats still remember that under the regulation concerning amendments they found no opportunity to force test votes on particular schedules. Under the rule the committee could present amendments at any time, but individual members could only suggest changes in the schedules under consideration. As the entire six days were devoted to the first schedule, dealing with chemicals and drugs, they found very little opportunity to make effective suggestions. They probably will resist such a rule for the consideration of the present bill.

FAST TRAIN RUNS AMUCK
Without Guiding Hand It Dashes Into Waiting Room, Killing Four.

Montreal, March 18.—Four persons are dead and thirty others were more or less seriously injured as the result of the blowing out of a wash-out pipe on the locomotive hauling the Boston express, three mi. s. out from the Windsor street station. Scalding steam filled the cab and the engineer and firemen were forced to jump. The train, without a guiding hand at the throttle, dashed into the station through the granite wall into the women's waiting room, and then into the rotunda, where the locomotive, after demolishing one massive granite pillar, was brought to a standstill by another. The four persons killed were sitting in the women's waiting room.

HONOR CLEVELAND IN NEW YORK TODAY

President and Chief Justice at Mass Meeting.

New York, March 18.—In the metropolis of the nation America is doing honor today to the only man who was ever elected to the presidency, then defeated for that office and again elected. Today would have been the seventy-second birthday of Grover Cleveland if he had not died last June. For the purpose of paying proper tribute to his memory the president of the United States, the chief justice of the United States and the governor of New York state came here to join with the mayor of New York and other notabilities in two great mass meetings.

The first of the two meetings took place in Carnegie hall today, and the other will be held this evening in the great hall of the College of the City of New York. Mayor McClellan of New York presided at the first meeting. Addresses lauding the place held by Mr. Cleveland in the nation's memory and history were delivered by President Taft, Chief Justice Fuller, Governor Hughes and others. A letter from former President Roosevelt expressing regret in his inability to join in the meeting was read. Richard Watson Gilder, the famous editor and poet, who was a close personal friend of Mr. Cleveland, read an original poem.

Among the purposes of the meetings is the planning of a permanent memorial to the memory of President Cleveland.

Mr. Taft will remain in this section of the country two days. Tomorrow morning he will go to New Haven to attend a meeting of the Yale corporation, of which he is a member. He will return here in time to attend the dinner of the Yale alumni of New York.

JURORS JOKE ABOUT IT

Bursts of Laughter Heard From Behind Door in Cooper Case.

Nashville, Tenn., March 18.—After supper last evening the jurors in the Cooper case returned to the courtroom, but there was no loud talk, as in the first hour of their retirement. Instead, bursts of laughter and snatches of song indicated that the twelve men were not discussing definitions of murder or theories of self-defense. Just before 9 p. m., they summoned the deputies and announced that they would "turn in" for the night.

Attorney General McCann looks for a verdict. "The charge is long," he said, "and the jury is made up of farmers who do not think rapidly. They may want to read that charge a dozen times before they are satisfied that they understand a certain point. I am confident that they will give us a verdict before the end of the week." Judge Anderson of the defense expected a verdict in thirty minutes or a mistrial. He would not discuss the delay.

Porto Rico Out of Funds.

San Juan, Porto Rico, March 18.—The failure of the house of delegates to pass the deficiency appropriation bill has resulted in the closing of a number of night schools, the insular library and other public institutions. The federal court is without funds to pay jurors and the expenses of witnesses and the lack of money will necessitate a reduction in the police force and the closing of the day schools several weeks earlier than is customary.

The Vaude has an extremely good bill to offer tonight in the two subjects, "The Bride of Lammermoor" and "The Painting." Both pictures are entertaining and interesting. Miss Clara Gregg will sing "I'm in Love With the Man in the Moon."

The two subjects, "Tag Day" and "Bring me Some Ice," shown at the Grand theater last night were the best comedies ever shown here. The last picture is especially funny. The same film will be shown tonight. Miss Iva Brown will sing "Roses, Roses, Everywhere."

An extra attraction has been secured for the Grand theater tonight. Stephens & Bordeau, song and dance artists will put on a vaudeville stunt. No extra charges will be made.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

W. O. Headlee writes of a marriage which took place last week in San Angelo, Texas, and which was very amusing. The bride's name was Minnie Durn, and the groom's name, William D. Gosh. The local newspapers there carried bold headlines "Gosh-Durn Wedding."

CARTHAGE MAN'S LOSS.

Greenfield Reporter: The large double barn and silos on the farm of Dr. Rider, near the "Beach" in Rush county, were destroyed by fire last night about eight o'clock. Six horses were burned in the barns. Jesse Addison lives on the farm and Dr. Rider lives in Carthage.

Don't Use a Knife!

Whatever you do, DON'T CUT YOUR CORNS. That is one of the most dangerous things you can do. Every time you cut your corn you are subject to blood poisoning. DON'T DO IT.

Raymond Corn Remedy

The next time instead of using the knife and running the risk, get a bottle of Raymond Corn Remedy and follow our directions. You'll never use a knife again.
